Connecticut Wedding DJ does two weddings during Hurricane Irene

Glastonbury, CT - September 8, 2011 - As Hurricane Irene rolled into Connecticut in late August, State officials had already closed roads and asked citizens to remain at home. Most businesses were closing up and sending employees home.

Two young couples with wedding plans on that infamous day were left panicked and wondering if their wedding celebrations would have to be scrapped. One couple's venue cancelled, causing them to scramble last minute for another location. The other couple's venue moved their reception to an alternate location. And to make matters even worse, both bands that had been hired to provide music cancelled as well.

Beth Angel and her company, PartyProDJ llc had also been hired for the celebrations and were ready to spring into action. At 8:00am as high winds and rain began to slam the Hartford area Beth, Mike and DJ Jeff were already headed to one venue. At the same time, another crew member and DJ John headed to the second venue. Time was of the essence. They needed to get in ahead of what would soon be an attack of rain, flooding, high winds, fallen trees and downed electrical wires that would eventually inundate the entire area. Another member of the PartyProDJ llc crew set up a command post, monitored weather forecasts and kept everyone in constant communication.

"They totally saved the day for me and covered my ceremony and cocktail hour flawlessly. People had no idea that things didn't go as I had planned.", said Jessica, one of the brides.

"Beth Angel owner of PartyProDJ said, "The wedding business is very exciting, however it doesn't usually include the excitement of a hurricane. Our two couples had been planning their weddings for a life-time. The opportunity to provide this level of service doesn't happen often. We had to do whatever it took to make our couples wedding day complete."

PartyProDJ llc is a Connecticut based DJ, Music and Lighting business since 1998. Owner Beth Angel is a fourth generation bridal and wedding expert.
